EU Battery Regulation 2023/1542 – Marposs Due Diligence

In July 2023, the European Union approved the Battery Regulation 2023/1542, introducing several legislative measures to enhance the existing framework and improve battery sustainability and safety across the EU.

Marposs S.p.A. is well-informed about the regulation's content and is confident that all products will comply with the applicable requirements within the specified timeframes.

Starting August 18, 2024, all batteries, whether integrated into a product or supplied separately, must bear the CE marking in accordance with the new standard. Please note that many new obligations under this regulation will gradually come into effect over the coming years.
